The Women and Health Initiative (W&HI) is seeking a paid, part-time Research Assistant to begin in February 2018 and continue to work through May 2018. The Research Assistant will contribute to a collaborative research project between Harvard and the University of Antioquia in Colombia that is part of a larger consortium of case study research on health in humanitarian settings.

The Research Assistant will support the project in the following areas:

1) working with W&HI and Colombia team to review and draft research protocols in two regions of Antioquia
2) crafting a Harvard IRB application and reviewing and advising on IRB application to University of Antioquia
3) conducting or supporting a literature review on maternal health outcomes associated with violence in Colombia, including a review of the gray literature
4) liaising closely with W&HI team, as well as collaborators in Colombia to assist with data analysis and translation overall

Qualifications

- Familiarity with maternal and women’s health
- Previous experience with literature reviews
- Previous experience with quantitative and qualitative data analysis
- Attention to detail, excellent organizational skills
- Demonstrated interest in the topic area
- Bilingual Spanish/English
- Excellent written and oral communication skills in both Spanish and English

Time commitment: up to 15-20 hours per week

Duration: February 2018 – May 2018

If you are a current student at the Harvard Chan School and are interested in working in a dynamic, action-oriented environment, please submit your resume and a cover letter describing how your skills and background relate to the scope of work by 23 February 2018 to Mary Nell Wegner at mnwegner@hsph.harvard.edu.