A Takemi Program Seminar

Q&A on Harvard Chan Campus Climate Assessment and Examining the racialized experiences of doctoral students of color

Thursday, January 28, 2016
3:30 - 5:00pm
GHP 12\textsuperscript{th} Floor Conference Room

Kimberly A. Truong, Ph.D., is Director of Inclusion Programs at the Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health and Adjunct Lecturer on Education at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. She earned a Ph.D. in higher education at the University of Pennsylvania, Ed.M. from the Harvard Graduate School of Education, and B.A. from Brandeis University.

Dr. Truong began her career in this field 12 years ago so that she could help improve educational access and efforts to retain underrepresented students. Prior to joining the Harvard Chan School, Dr. Truong was an Administrative Fellow at Harvard College.

Dr. Truong conducts research on access and equity issues in higher education, university student experiences, and higher education policy. She is nationally recognized for research on the experiences of doctoral students of color with racism and racial trauma. She serves on the membership committee of the American Educational Research Association (AERA) Qualitative Research Special Interest Group (SIG) and is Co-editor of the AERA Research on the Education of Asian and Pacific Americans SIG Newsletter.