Students collect donated feminine hygiene products for women's shelter
In recognition of International Women's Day on March 8, students are running a month-long drive collecting feminine hygiene products for women at Rosie's Place in Boston.

What we know—and don't know—about Zika
An expert panel discussed the current status of our understanding of the Zika virus, its health effects, and containment strategies.

HIV/AIDS long-term costs high—and unaffordable to most-affected countries
Researchers say it will cost between $98 billion and $261 billion over the next 35 years to prevent and treat HIV/AIDS in the nine African countries most affected by the epidemic.
Register today for the SHINE Summit
Join leading scientists, academics, and business leaders to leverage the latest research in sustainability and health at the SHINE Summit, which runs from June 15-17.

Former Senate Majority Leader discusses leadership in and out of government
Thomas Daschle, former Senator Majority Leader and Founder and CEO of the Daschle Group, appeared on the latest Voices in Leadership webcast.

Register for the State of Global Health Symposium
Register today for Coming of Age: A Conference on Global Adolescent Health, hosted by the Department of Global Health and Population. The Symposium will take place on Tuesday, March 29, from 2:00-5:00 PM at the Joseph B. Martin Conference Center.

Submit research for Harvard Chan Poster Day
The 2016 Harvard Chan Poster Day will be held on Friday, April 8. Harvard Chan students, postdocs, and research associates are invited to submit their research abstract by March 24. Prizes will be awarded to the best posters.

There's still time to complete the Campus Climate Assessment
If you haven't completed the ongoing Campus Climate Assessment Survey, you still have time. The Survey will be open until March 16. Click here to take the survey.

Research news
CDC may have underestimated prevalence of obesity in U.S.
Vitamin D deficiency during pregnancy may raise child's MS risk
Aspirin may protect against cancer risk
Sugary beverages hard to find in Boston Public Schools
Exploring declining hospital readmission rates
Drinking alcohol may temporarily raise risk of heart attack and stroke

You're receiving this email because you are a staff member or academic appointee.

Quick links:
Kiosk issue archive | School home page
Latest news coverage | Event calendar
Download our app for iPhone | Download Harvard Public Health magazine for e-reader

Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health | 90 Smith Street | Boston, MA 02120
Contact us