Internal Harvard Funding Opportunities

New – Harvard Catalyst - Target Inhibition and Silencing:
Up to $50,000 for “Hits to Lead” Advances in C/T Research

We are seeking proposals that apply the high-throughput lab automation, small molecule or siRNA library screening capabilities of ICCB-Longwood Screening Facility to problems of clinical and translational importance as they pertain to human health. Applications should address areas such as infectious disease or biodefense, novel therapeutic targets, understanding of emerging human disease pathways, gene knockdown and functional genomics, or target silencing and inhibition.

To apply, researchers are required to register to receive pilot grant application instructions, and attend an educational event held in the Cannon Room (Building C, HMS) from 3:30-5:30pm on either June 24 or July 16, 2014.

Awardees will work closely with Harvard Catalyst’s Reactor Program [http://links.harvardcatalyst.mkt5294.com/ctt?kn=8&ms=NDU5NDUwMDQS1&r=NDQ1OTE1MTk1MDMS1&b=0&j=NDQyNjAzMjMzS0&mt=1&rt=0].

Other Funding Opportunities

New - Pfizer’s Centers for Therapeutic Innovation (CTI) – Request for Proposals

Request for Translational Proposals for Biotherapeutic Targets

CTI: an innovative Pfizer program that partners with leading academic medical centers and foundations nationwide to accelerate the translation of novel targets to the clinic. CTI’s goal is to identify new compounds and accelerate research and drug development from validated target to proof-of-mechanism in the clinic. A partnership with CTI includes collaborative use of Pfizer’s proprietary antibody drug discovery tools and technologies, broad publishing rights and significant financial awards in the form of milestone and royalty payments for successful programs.

Children’s Prize – Data for Life Prize

The Data for Life Prize invites applicants to submit a successful but under-recognized life-saving intervention for children under five that deserves more rigorous study. Two winners will receive $50,000 each to fund meticulous, independent, year-long field studies of their chosen intervention. The results can then be used by winners to both improve the effectiveness of the intervention and to convincingly demonstrate the value of their work to potential donors and funding partners.

The deadline to apply is June 18th 2014. The application can be found at www.childrensprize.org.

American Psychological Foundation - Lizette Peterson-Homer Injury Prevention Grant Award

The Lizette Peterson Homer Memorial Injury Research Grant supports research into psychological and behavioral aspects of the prevention of injuries in children and adolescents as reflected in the activities and interests within pediatric psychology of the late Lizette Peterson-Homer and her commitment to improving the status of children in the face of the most significant threats to their health and development. This grant is open to students and faculty to support research related to the prevention of injuries in children and adolescents. Funding is available up to $5,000 and is sponsored jointly by the American Psychological Foundation and APA Div. 54.

Closing Date: October 1, 2014

Occupational Safety and Health Training Project Grants (T03) - PAR 10-288

Internal Due Date: June 9, 2014

Internal Competition Instructions: Harvard, as one institution, may submit one application for this opportunity. The OVPR office will facilitate an internal submission process to determine an application to go forward.

Interested applicants are asked to send the following to Autumn_Bennett@harvard.edu

- A proposal of not more than three pages summarizing the background (item 2), the proposed training (component of item 3), and the recruitment and retention plan to enhance diversity (the NIH will not review applications without a plan for diversity recruitment efforts)
- CV of PI(s), any format acceptable
- Institutional letter of support (likely at the Dean level) for the project should the application go forward for submission

Overview:

Training Programs

This program will support high quality Bachelors, Masters, Doctoral, and Post-Doctoral (OMR only) training programs. This program will not support academic certificate programs. Grantees are expected to track all program graduates, including placement and progress in their careers.

Certain training areas are considered “core disciplines”. The core disciplines are: OMR, OHN, IH, and OS. In addition to these core disciplines, in order to take full advantage of the unique strengths and capabilities of institutions, consideration will be given to the development of new and innovative academic component programs in allied disciplines that are relevant to the occupational safety and health field, e.g., ergonomics, industrial toxicology, occupational injury prevention, occupational epidemiology, occupational health psychology, occupational health services, and agricultural safety and health. There must be a minimum of five (5) full time trainees in each program, with the exception of OMR, where there must be at least four (4) full time trainees.

Occupational Health Physics is an allied occupational safety and health academic program that continues as a new area of interest to NIOSH. Occupational health physicists establish radiation protection measures and radiation exposure characteristics for individual and classes of workers in various occupational environments where radioactive materials are used. Occupational Health Physics academic and research training programs are needed that provide masters and doctoral level training in health physics, radiation protection measures, exposure pathway analysis, and radiation dose estimation and reconstruction. These are critical areas of instruction and essential components of occupational health radiation protection programs.
Accreditation by the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education (ACGME), http://www.acgme.org, is required for OMR programs. In addition, a TPG is encouraged to have accreditation of the Bachelors and Masters level training programs by applicable recognized specialized accrediting organizations, including ABET, http://www.abet.org.

TPGs must document that the core or allied training programs proposed will fill a critical gap in the selected occupational safety and health disciplines that meet specific regional workforce needs. A regional OSH workforce assessment is an important tool in establishing the need for OSH training programs. Evidence of meeting such needs includes documented placement of graduates in responsible occupational safety and health practitioner and/or research positions in the private and/or public sectors. In addition, TPGs must have an advisory committee of three or more individuals who can provide advice on the program focus and curriculum. The committee may include representatives of labor, industry, government agencies, academic institutions and professional associations.

Each core area program curriculum should include courses that fully prepare trainees to move into and/or advance in the OSH work environment. Appropriate clinical rotations and field experiences with occupational safety and health agencies or other appropriate groups and with labor-management health and safety groups are encouraged.

Core programs can offer masters and doctoral degrees. Pre-doctoral training must lead to the Masters degree and/or the Ph.D. degree or a comparable research doctoral degree. Pre-doctoral training should emphasize fundamental training in areas of occupational safety and health sciences.

A TPG is encouraged to provide Doctoral and Masters trainees instruction in the following areas:

1. Responsible conduct of research (required for all Masters [research] and Doctoral trainees)
2. How to write research grant proposals (optional)
3. How to manage research laboratories (optional)

In addition, a TPG must have an Under-represented Trainee Recruitment and Retention Plan.

TPGs are encouraged to recruit and train students to help address the under-representation among the occupational safety and health professional workforce. A detailed plan to address the under-representation of minorities among occupational safety and health professionals and for the recruitment of under-represented minorities to the core programs must be a part of the application. The initial review group will review this plan as part of the overall rating of the application. Specific efforts to conduct outreach activities to develop collaborative training programs with academic institutions serving minority and other under-represented populations, such as Tribal Colleges and Universities, Historically Black Colleges and Universities, and Hispanic-Serving Institutions are encouraged.

Edward Mallinckrodt, Jr Foundation - Mallinckrodt Grants

This year the Edward Mallinckrodt, Jr Foundation has expanded their institutional limits concerning the Mallinckrodt Grants opportunity and will allow Harvard to submit two (2) nominations per school. These grants are focused on biomedical research.

If you are interested in being nominated for this opportunity, please let the Office of Research Strategy and Development know by Friday, May 30, 2014 (orsd@hsph.harvard.edu).
Details concerning the 2014 submission can be found here: http://emallinckrodtfoundation.org/Submission.html.

The Mallinckrodt Calendar does yet display the due date for 2014 applications, but we have been informed it will fall in August.

Vilcek Foundation Prize in Biomedical Sciences, 2015

Call for Nominations

We are writing with information about the Vilcek Foundation 2015 call for nominations for Creative Promise in Biomedical Science. The foundation is seeking applications from young, foreign-born researchers age 38 and under from now through June 10, 2014. Three winners will each be awarded a $50,000 unrestricted cash prize. The 2015 nomination process closes at 5:00 pm EST on Tuesday, June 10, 2014.

There is no limit to how many applicants may come from Harvard University for this award, and applicants may self-nominate, but there are immigration and age requirements that need to be met http://www.vilcek.org/prizes/creative-promise/biomedical-science.html

Eligibility Requirements

To be eligible for the Vilcek Prize for Creative Promise in Biomedical Science, applicants must meet all of the criteria listed below

1. Applicant must have been born outside the United States.
2. Applicant must not be more than 38 years old as of December 31, 2014 (born on or after January 1, 1976).
3. Applicant must be a naturalized citizen or permanent resident (green card holder) of the United States.
4. Applicant must have earned a doctoral degree (MD, PhD, or equivalent).
5. Applicant must intend to pursue a professional career in the United States.
6. Applicant must hold a full-time position in an academic institution or other organization. Eligible positions include the following: Assistant or Associate Professor, Research Scientist, or equivalent. The applicant must be directly responsible for the design and execution of the work submitted for consideration. Graduate students and postdoctoral fellows working under the supervision of a mentor are not eligible.
7. Applicant must not be a past winner or finalist of the Vilcek Prize for Creative Promise.

We will be keeping an eye out for an announcement concerning 2015 nominations for the Vilcek Prize.

2014 BBVA Foundation Frontiers of Knowledge Awards

Nominations are open for the 2014 BBVA Foundation Frontiers of Knowledge Awards. The deadline to submit a nomination is June 30th, 2014.

Harvard Faculty have been successfully nominated for this award in the past. Most recently, Professor Elhanan Helpman, Galen L. Stone Professor of International Trade, FAS Economics, was selected in the area of Economics, Finance and Management.

Other nomination areas include:
- Basic Sciences (Physics, Chemistry, Mathematics)
- Biomedicine
- Ecology and Conservation Biology (Edward O. Wilson, 2011)
- Information and Communication Technologies
There is no limit on how many nominations may come from one university, but an individual cannot be nominated in more than one category.

Winners receive a diploma, commemorative art work, and 400,000 Euros (approx. $555,610.00)

More information can be found in the attached letter and at the link below.

PCORI – Eugene Washington PCORI Engagement Awards Program

The Engagement Awards were created to forge opportunities for patients and other stakeholder communities to become more involved in patient-centered research. Each award provides support for up to $250,000 with a project period of no more than two years. In 2014, PCORI will award up to $15 million to support projects in three categories:

- Knowledge Awards
- Training and Development Awards
- Dissemination Awards

Together, the awards will help establish a diverse community of passionate individuals with opportunities to participate in patient-centered research. More information about the Eugene Washington PCORI Engagement Awards.

Letters of Inquiry (LOI) are received on a rolling basis.

PCORI Funding Opportunities

PCORI has three broad funding cycles a year. Starting with May 2013, cycles are designated by the month and year that applications are due. More targeted and special funding opportunities may be available outside of these cycles.

There are some differences in the latest round of PFAs, issued Feb. 5, including the fact that for many of them, Letters of Intent (LOIs) are competitive. This means they'll be reviewed for their responsiveness and fit with program goals and authors will be notified if they're invited to submit a full application. Be sure to check the details of the PFA to which you're applying.
