New - DF/HCC Clinical Research Career Development Program – K12 – Call For Applications

Deadline: Wednesday, October 1, 2014

The DF/HCC K-12 Fellowship Advisory Committee is currently seeking applicants (physician/researchers who have completed their required clinical training in an oncology subspecialty) for the K12 Paul Calabresi Award for Clinical Oncology (PCACO) entitled "Clinical Research Career Development Program." Funding for one new awardee will be available, retroactive to September 1, 2014. Senior fellows and junior faculty, within five years of their first appointment, are eligible, provided they do not hold R-01 or equivalent funding. The deadline for applications is October 1, 2014, with an expected award within the month.

The recipient will receive $100,000 towards salary support and additional funds for the following: (a) research expenses such as supplies, equipment, and technical personnel; (b) tuition, fees and books related to career development; (c) travel to research meetings or training; and (d) statistical services including personnel and computer time. The recipient must devote a minimum of 75% effort to the Clinical Research Career Development Program. The program is funded through fiscal year 2018 providing awardees up to 5 years of support.

Selection Process:

The DF/HCC K12 Advisory Committee will review all applications and make a final selection of the K12 awardee in October of 2014. Candidates will be chosen for participation in this program based on the following:

1. A record of outstanding scholarship in medicine or nursing and in related post-graduate work.
2. Training in a clinical subspecialty of cancer medicine, including radiation therapy, surgical oncology, medical or pediatric oncology or nursing, and excellence in the practice of his/her specialty.
3. Demonstrated commitment to, and proficiency in cancer research, as evidenced by an initial successful completion of high quality research project(s), and a preliminary record of high quality publication.
4. A proposal for a multi-year research program in translational research that, if successful, will include performance of a prospective clinical trial, and an independent career in clinical investigation
5. A plan for mentorship and formal training in laboratory (or "dry lab") and clinical aspects of translational research. The training experience should be designed to enhance the candidate's research capabilities. Mentors will ordinarily include both laboratory and clinical faculty members; however, it will be required that at least one of the mentors have a broad background in clinical trials design and evaluation. The candidate will actively participate in a clinical subspecialty as a basic component of the research plan. Formal training should include course work in clinical trial design, responsible conduct of research, biostatistics, and regulatory medicine, unless those courses have already been completed as part of the candidate's fellowship or post-graduate training. Additional courses relevant to the candidate's research interests, including hands-on training in laboratory methods and translational research, may be included in the candidate's research plan.

6. Special attention will be given to recruitment of candidates representing diverse background and underserved groups, including minorities and women.

Eligibility:

1. All candidates must be U.S. citizens, naturalized citizens, or permanent residents. Individuals on temporary or student visas are not eligible.
2. Candidates must be able to spend a minimum of 75 percent effort conducting research and research career development including courses during the period of the award.
3. Eligible appointees must be physicians in a cancer related specialty and must hold the HMS title of Instructor as of the time of appointment.
4. Individuals who may have been or currently are a PI of an NIH R03 or R21 grant or a PHS or non-Federal award that duplicates the provisions of an R03 or R21 grant remain eligible for an NCI K12 appointment
5. Individuals are NOT eligible for an appointment if they:
 - Have been or are currently PIs on an NCI or NIH individual mentored career development career, e.g., K01, K07, K08, K23 award; an NCI Transition Career Award (K22); the Pathway to Independence (K99/R00) award; or non-PHS equivalents;
 - Have been or are currently a PI on NIH research grants (such as R01, Program Project (P01) or Cancer Center (P50) grants or subprojects of such grants); and
 - Have been or are currently a PI on peer-reviewed non-NIH research grants over $100,000 in direct costs per year intended for faculty independent investigators.

Application Format:

A formal application will be required, in which the candidate will present:

1. K12 Application Cover Sheet. (Please use the coversheet located on page 3 of this notice.)
2. A complete curriculum vitae and bibliography
3. A proposal for a multiyear research project in clinical or translational cancer research. This should be organized as follows (maximum length: 5 pages): Introduction, Specific Aims, Background and Rationale, Preliminary Findings, Experimental Plan, Timetable for completion of project and references. References are not included within the 5-page limit.
4. A plan for didactic coursework (maximum length: one page). The plan should include training in the responsible conduct of research and service on a DFHCC scientific Review committee for at least one year. The candidates training plan should include taking the year long course in Translational Research offered by Harold Burstein, MD, PhD at the DFCI.
5. A plan for mentorship (maximum length: one page)

6. Attestation of support from both the institution and the proposed mentor(s), in letter format. A total of three letters of recommendation must accompany applications. This includes a letter from the candidate's Chief of Service, in which the institution's commitment to the long-term development of the candidate's career is stated. If the candidate is not already in a faculty position, the institution should provide evidence of intent to support promotion of the candidate to faculty status in a clinical oncology department (Radiation Therapy, Surgery, Medical, Pediatric or Nursing Oncology).

If you wish to apply for this award, please email your application by Wednesday, October 1, 2014 to Lee Jaffe at LBJAFFE@PARTNERS.ORG.

Please do not include copies of IRB protocols. All files must be in PDF format and the reference letters must include signatures. If you submit more than one PDF file, please label each file "Applicant's Last Name # of #". For example, if the applicant's last name is John Anderson, the files should be named as follows:

Anderson 1 of 6.pdf
Anderson 2 of 6.pdf
Anderson 3 of 6.pdf
etc.

You can also click through to the OpenForum platform to see applications as they are submitted.

This challenge is open to anyone who you think may have a proven innovation that, if widely adopted, could dramatically change health care delivery in the US? Specifically, we are looking for solutions that have already been implemented at least once and have demonstrated effectiveness. This "scale-up" competition seeks to shorten the time frame for innovation dissemination.

Finalists get a case written about them, share $150,000, and have the opportunity to present at the Forum on Health Care Innovation conference in April.

The Program on the Global Demography of Aging at Harvard University – Call for Pilots

The Program on the Global Demography of Aging at Harvard University funds pilot project grants in the area of the Economics and Demography of Aging. The aim is to provide assistance to Harvard researchers in undertaking preliminary research that may subsequently lead to a larger research project. The PGDA is a center for research on the Economics and Demography of Aging funded by the by the National Institute of Aging. More information on the PGDA is available at <https://www.hsph.harvard.edu/pgda/>.

Pilot projects are solicited in the areas of:

1. Measurement of the global patterns of disease, mortality, and morbidity in aging populations
2. Social determinants of population health and aging
3. Economics of health care provision for the elderly
4. Macroeconomic consequences of population aging
5. Migration and Aging
6. Aging and HIV/AIDS

Applications that involve collaboration with our international partners in the International Institute for Population Sciences (IIPS), Mumbai, India, the INDEPTH Network Secretariat, Accra, Ghana, the Africa Center for Health and Population Studies, KwaZulu-Natal, South Africa, , MRC/Wits Rural Public Health and Health Transitions Research Unit, Agincourt, South Africa, Ifakara Health Institute, Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, and the Navrongo Health Research Center, Navrongo , Ghana, or that complement the ongoing Longitudinal Study of Aging in India (LASI) and the Health and Aging in Africa Longitudinal Study in INDEPTH communities (HAALSI) are particularly welcomed.

The pilot should be designed so as to produce results that will support a future application for research funding to the NIH or other bodies. The pilot projects are designed to support new researchers in aging (without previous R01 grants or equivalent) and more experienced researchers who wish to investigate new areas of research.

Researchers who are considering applying are encouraged to discuss their proposed application with David Bloom or David Canning to ensure that the proposal falls into areas of interest of PGDA.

Eligibility

We welcome applications from all parts of Harvard University. Principal Investigators of pilot projects must be Harvard University faculty members or appointed on the research scientist track. Graduate students, visitors, and postdoctoral fellows, may not apply directly for a pilot project but a faculty member or researcher may include salary support for a graduate student or postdoctoral fellow in their application.

Grants

Pilot project grants will usually be for up to $50,000. Smaller grants, and larger grants of up to $75,000, will be considered but the applicant should recognize that larger funding requests will need to be particularly compelling. Applicants requiring a higher level of funding should consider applying directly to the NIH for a R03 small grant. Applications should be for research periods of one year with a start date on or before January 1, 2015.

There is no limit on the number of applications submitted. Grants may be used to support: faculty salaries (for example, summer salary support); travel, research assistance, acquisition of research materials (including electronic databases); to facilitate communication with colleagues and institutions in other countries; and for other appropriate research purposes as allowed by the NIH (N.B. stipend and tuition not allowed). Grants may be used to acquire computer software and databases, but not for hardware purchases.

PGDA collaborates with the Research and Computing Core at the Harvard Center for Population and Development Studies. Principal investigators wishing to have specific computing, data archiving or research assistance as a part of their pilot should contact Jocelyn Finlay, Director of Research and Computing Core at jfinlay@hsph.harvard.edu.

Award Conditions

Researchers awarded pilots will either be or become affiliates of the PGDA. These awards will be made from federal funds and must be administered in accordance with HSPH-NIH grant policies. Funded projects will require approval for research on human subjects from Harvard School of Public Health Institutional Review Board. Additionally, these projects will need to be reviewed by all other involved institutions including your local sponsored research office before funds can be disbursed. To help alleviate the burden of multiple IRB reviews, these studies may be eligible for an IRB Authorization Agreement with HSPH. (For more information, please visit the Human Subject Committee website.)

Studies that involve use of data from foreign human subjects/or collaboration with foreign individuals or institutions will also require US State Department Foreign Clearance. PGDA will assist in obtaining IRB and foreign clearance.

Reporting Requirements

Successful principle investigators are required to submit annual progress reports on the project to PGDA. Upon completion of the project, the principle investigator is required to submit a report of the work carried out under the grant. Awardees will also be encouraged to present the results of their work in a seminar and are welcome to submit a paper to PGDA's working paper series. The principle investigator is required to report to PGDA any subsequent grant applications and publications that derive from the pilot project. Publications are subject to the NIH Policy on Enhancing Public Access to Archived Publications Resulting from NIH-Funded Research which ensures the use of NIH funding is acknowledged and the publication is open access.

Applications

We ask that applicants submit the following documents:

- PGDA Cover Sheet (See Downloadable Forms and Instructions)
- Proposal narrative: Proposals should not exceed 3 pages in length (not including references) and should include a description of the research, as well as an explanation of how the pilot would aid progress to a larger research project.
- A CV or NIH biosketch for key personnel
- Budget justification
- Budget (on PHS 398 Form Page 4, use page 5 as well if project period is less than 12 months)

We strongly encourage applicants to consult their local financial administrator or grant manager prior to submission. Local unit budget approval is not required at the proposal stage, but must be in place before the award will be made. Prospective applicants should discuss budget issues with the PGDA Program Coordinator, Donna DiBartolomeo, ddibart@hsph.harvard.edu.

Submission and Review

Complete submissions should be received electronically by 5pm on September 3, 2014

Submissions should be sent by email to:

PGDA Program Coordinator
Donna DiBartolomeo, ddibart@hsph.harvard.edu

Please note that the detailed budget should be in a separate file from the rest of the submission.

PGDA decisions will be communicated to applicants in November 2014.

Unfortunately, our revenue growth has not been able to keep pace. We are continuing to work diligently to improve revenue results for 2014, while closely monitoring expenses and maintaining our focus on strengthening efficiencies and maximizing the impact of every donor dollar.

Under these circumstances, the Association has postponed the upcoming Core Research Program call for applications that was planned for an October submission deadline. We will know more when the organizational budget for 2015 is approved at the end of 2014, and additional information regarding the timing of future Core Research Program grant cycles will be posted on our website as it becomes available.
